PLAN UNDERWAY FOR SCHOOL STAGE

Will Probably be Constructed During Holidays

If present plans mature the Brigham Young University will have a modern theatrical stage of its own by the time school opens after the Christmas Holidays.

The agitation for a stage has been underway for a number of years. Professor Eastmond informs the White and Blue that for years the desire for a large stage has been growing. During the last two years the faculty members and the students have been particularly zealous in advocating that the floor in College Hall be sloped and a large forty foot stage installed.

It now looks as though the long looked for stage will become a reality. For the past few weeks Professor Snell in charge of the Mechanic Arts Department, has been investigating the advisability of installing the stage and making plans for the same. Acting under instructions of the Executive Council he has taken up the problem with local contractors and has reported favorable to the President.

The only consideration now standing in the way of the new stage is the cost of the improvement. The Executive Council desires the needed stage and we hope will consider it worth the price. When it is taken into consideration that every school play staged down town costs the school about $150 for the house, and that the school stages three or four plays every year it is immediately evident that the stage would be a good financial investment.

Moreover, Mutual Improvement Association's and other organizations have already expressed their willingness to rent College Hall if it had a first class stage.

College Hall is so constructed the seats could be sloped and the ones in the rear of the hall would be on a level with the floor in the study hall. The stage could be made forty feet in width making it as large as any in Provo.

"I have reported favorable. We know what we want and it can be done during the holidays," said Professor Snell in concluding his discussion to the White and Blue reporter.

The Executive Committee has been alive to the school's needs in having Professor Snell investigate. We hope it acts favorable on his recommendation.

LARGE ATTENDANCE SECOND QUARTER

Many Studsnts of Advanced Standing Return

Monday the second quarter began with bright prospects for the future. Over seventy-five new students registered making a total enrollment of over 1100. Many new courses are outlined and some of those that were completed last quarter are being repeated owing to the urgent requests of new students. A great deal of enthusiasm is being manifested in all directions. Monday found the classrooms and halls thronged with students from all parts of the intermountain country, ready to begin work at once. With a fine outline of courses and a large enrollment of enthusiastic students the second quarter promises to be the very best of the year.

Among the new students are Ward Moody, a New Zealand missionary, who was with us last year, J. B. Sumsion, the famous preacher is making things look like home once again, Ray Olpin from P. G. who has just returned from a mission to Japan is also with us.

PRINCETON DEBATE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Arrangements All Completed for Major Forensic Event of Year

One week from tonight the "Y" debators will meet the Princeton orators in what promises to be one of the greatest "battle of brains" the school has ever taken part in.

While our men have had but three weeks in which to prepare, they have put every ounce of energy into their work and are certain to give Princeton a royal battle. Every day sees the three men uncovering new material and inventing new arguments.

On the other hand, Princeton is sending a very strong team West. The "Y" will have the first debate with the Princeton team during its western trip. From here the same team is going to tour California, Washington and Oregon, and intends to return home having won all its debates.

Princeton agreed to December 22, as the official date in order to make it possible for "Y" students to attend. Every loyal student should therefore be out. All Alumni and friends of the B. Y. are likewise invited.

"EX-MISHIES" ORGANIZE CLUB

Offer Support to Public Serviee Bureau

The returned missionaries attending the B. Y. U. met on the seventh of December and affected an organization, the object of which will be social spiritual, and intellectual uplift. The officers elected were: A. C. West, President, Harold Brown, Vice-President, A. Ray Olpin, Secretary and Treasurer and White and Blue reporter. A committee of five was appointed to draft a constitution for the society.

It was suggested that it be the aim of the "ex-mishies" to propagate the missionary spirit, and strive to increase interest in the missionary work abroad and at home. Moreover their experience and talents will be used as much as possible to benefit the school and inform the public of the conditions in the various countries of the world. The members are willing to offer their services to the Public Service Bureau of the University and will respond to calls to go into the wards to entertain. The organization feels that it includes some of the best students in school, students who have had practical experience in many different countries. It is hoped that the society will be a permanent organization at the B. Y. U.

PROF. LARSEN GIVES EDUCATIONAL FACTS

Urges Greater Support of Schools

Extracts from Address Given By B. F. Larsen.

"The schools are facing a grave crisis. The teacher shortage demands your attention and action. The rapid thinning in the ranks of the teaching profession and the weakening of the school by lowering the intellectual and the age requirements of teachers brings a condition that demands immediate relief.

The National Committee for Chamber of Commerce Cooperation with Public Schools says:

(1) "It is becoming more difficult every year to secure adequately trained teachers because of the very inadequate salaries paid them."

(2) "The nation begins the year 1920-21 with a shortage of 90,000 adequately trained elementary and high school teachers," reports the United States Commissioner of Education, P. P. Claxton.

(3) "This state (Utah) needs a thousand additional well trained teachers now." (1920) Supt. G. N. Child.

(4) There is an insufficient supply of new teachers being trained.

"During the last four years the enrollment in normal schools and other teacher training institutions has decreased from 25 to more than 50 per cent.

Dr. George D. Strayer submits the following questions, the answers to which will account for the alarming decrease in the number and quality of teachers:

(1) "Do the teachers in our city have salaries sufficient to enable them to buy books, to subscribe to magazines, to enjoy music, to travel, to continue their professional study, and otherwise to lead the type of life, which makes them the kind of men and women that can be most helpful to my boys and girls?

(2) "Can teachers in our community have a comfortable place to live, good food and decent clothes for the amount of money which we pay them?

(3) "Are teachers who work in our schools able, on the salary paid to them to make provision against the liabilities of illness and old age?

(4) "Would I want my son and daughter to go into teaching? Is the recognition given to teachers, in terms of salary, (and we might add in terms of appreciation) sufficient to attract the ablest of young men and young women in your community?

Citizen, find the answer to these questions and proceed to act accord-

LORIN JONES WRITES PRESIDENT

School Efficiency Man of '20 Tells of Experiences

E. Las Vegas, N. Mex.
November 8, -920

Mr. George H. Brimhall,
Provo, Utah.
Dear Pres. Brimhall:

Your good letter came as a ray of sunshine to me as I had been longing for some news from the good old school. You know that there is something about the recollection of the school and the wonderful enviroment there that makes one almost wish that his school days there would never end.

I note with satisfaction that you say the school is progressing, which I was sure it would do because a school having the high ideals such as those of the Brigham Young University and also having a faculty of such high minded men and women is bound to endure and succeed.

Everything is progressing nicely with my work here and I feel that I am going to be able to do a great deal of good. In this job it takes a fellow quite a while to get his bear-

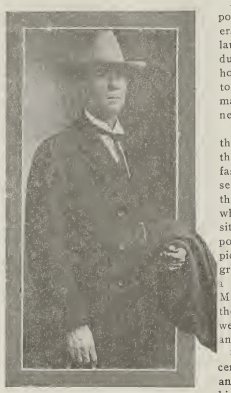
PRESIDENT BRIMHALL HONORED

School Celebrates 68th Birthof President—Studcnts Express Appreciation



The student body met last Thursday to commemorate the sixty-eighth birthday anniversity of the president of our university. The charming little vice-president, Miss Grace Nixon, gave the presentation speech in which she outlined a few of his accomplishments, expressed the reverence and esteem in which he is held, and expressed the students appreciation of his force, uplift and inspiration in directing them toward the higher and better things of life. Then as a basket of beautiful roses and ferns was uncovered, she presented them, with the wish that he might enjoy many more such years, amid the standing applause of the entire assembly;

For a moment he stood silent, almost fighting back the tears as he gazed at the flowers and softly caressed their petals, and then with his characteristic force and brevity, expressed his gratitude and appreciation for the lovely token with the hope that the life of each present might be kept as pure, as sweet as the flowers before him.

Students, faculty and friends from far and near, joined in wishing President Brimhall health, strength and happiness for many years to come that he may continue in the noble work of his pursuit.

SUPT. BENNION ADDRESSES NORMALS

Tells of the Advantages of Teaching

Professor Adam S. Bennion delivered a very interesting and instructive address to the Normal Class Monday evening. The speaker put the proposition of teaching squarely before the students, pointing out that they would have difficulties and "blue days" when things seem to go wrong, as well as days full of sunshine and pleasure when the earth seemed to revolve around their little school room.

Professor Bennion stated that teaching did more to prepare one for life than any other one thing and that it was beginning to be looked upon more as a profession than it has been in the past. Scores of men and women he claimed are taking up the profession and are being respected and followed rather than rejected as being impracticable beings.

The speaker gave what he considered the ten essential characteristics of every good teacher, namely: sincerity, sympathy, optimism, courtesy, vitality, self mastery, love of service, tact, spirituality and scholar-

"STOP THIEF" COMES FRIDAY

College to Present Roaring Farce at Columbia

If you haven't laughed since Napoleon translated the last five chapters of Webster's dictionary, you'll laugh when you see the College production of "Stop Thief." No matter how much of a grouch you happen to have, or how "china faced" you may have become by constant soberness, you'll have to laugh.

Two crook lovers plan to play their last trick while the members of the family are at the wedding breakfast of the charming daughter. A series of unheard of disappearances throws the party into a hysterical whirl. The Crook assumes the position of bridegroom, secretary and police force and paints a real live picture where in the young bridegroom tragically frames himself as a "Kleptomaniac," and even the Minister wishes for whiskey. Then, the satisfying conviction that "all's well that ends well" is introduced in an unusual fashion.

See "Stop Thief" Friday Night, December 17th at the Columbia Theatre and you'll stay happy 'till your next birthday.

BAND GIVES NUMBER OF CONCERTS

Prof. Sauer and Musicians Very Busy

During the past week several engagements were filled by the B. Y. U. Military Band. It entertained the students of the American Fork High School and the Provo High School, and gave a concert at the Fourth Ward meeting house.

The trip to American Fork was especially successful. The program given was very much appreciated by students, teachers and citizens of that town. Each selection was well chosen and well rendered. The beautiful vocal numbers rendered by the Johnson sisters who accompanied the band, as well as the catchy reading by Lela Maudsley were received with great appreciation.

Principal P. M. Neilson made a few remarks praising the splendid organization. He invited the band to come again and a vote of thanks was tendered Professor Sauer, the B. Y. U. Band, and others who contributed to the entertainment. Professor Sauer in response, mentioned the spirit of cooperation of the B. Y. U. with all schools and that visitors from various institutions of learning were heartily welcomed.

The following is the program given: "Spirit of Peace", March, ... Kiefer

UTAH COLLEGES PRACTICE BASKET-BALL

Resume of Sport Looks Good for B. Y. U.

The intercollegiate basket ball of the state is on much the same status as last. An outline of last year's results will give us some clue as to what is likely to take place in this years hoop tournament. It will be recalled that there were only two intercollegiate games played last year, the B. Y. U. vs. A. C. U. and the B. Y. U. vs. U. of U. Both games were played off the home floor. The reason for discontinuing the tournament after these games was the fact that the influenza made such gatherings unwise. In the first game at Logan the odds were some one hundred per cent against the B. Y. U. The "Y" had only two of the first line men in the game and only five players made the trip to Logan, the rest of the squad were at home either crippled or ill with the influenza. One man had had only one nights practice before playing at Logan. If in course of the game any of our men had been knocked out the "Y" would have been forced to fininsh the game with only four men. Two men were practically knocked out, but through their grit they stayed with the game. One suffered a dislocated elbow, the other was unconscious part of the time. Still Logan only doubled the score.

The game with the "U" occured before the "Y" men were hardly on their feet again after the influenza epidemic. In this condition they played the "U" team which was ready for the world' championship to a very close score.

This year the "Y" holds more of last year's players than either of the other schools. The U. of U. and A. C. have each lost their three best men from the game. The A. C. loses Jarvis, Mohr, and Andrews. The U. loses Clark and Romney. These men were the stars of their respective teams.

The "Y" is much strengthened this year by the addition of experienced men including Brown, Weight, and Swenson who will be at their best. From the foregoing facts it would seem that the "Y" has a better chance at the State championship than it has ever had since the great victory of the 1916--1917 season.

COLLEGE DANCE A JOVIAL AFFAIR

Participants Declare It "Best Ever"

"These B. Y. U. dances are like the notorious river—they just go on and on, each one just a little better than the last and all the very best ever." said a tired out enthusiastic dancer on his way home from the student body dance last Friday.

And he voiced the general sentiment it was true. Every one had a splendid time. The very atmosphere radiated pep, joyous abandonment and gool fellowship. How good it seemed after two weeks to go to another dance, see the students all "slicked up" in their best and that " glad I'm here, aren't you?" look at their eyes!

We don't even mind being crowded or stepped on a little bit. In fact it just makes one more interested in his partner. As one profound Senior remarked "Abraham Lincoln would have loved these dances." This is what he meant when he said the most broadening process is to rub elbows with our fellow men.

PRINCETON DEBATE

No loyal friend of the "Y" will miss the debate with Princeton which will be held one week from tonight. This debate will represent the greatest intellectual attempt the school has ever made. Authorities agree that Princeton is on a par with any school in the world, and many claim that in English and Allied subjects it is the best. This rating gives the Princeton team a great record to uphold. The debate is certain, therefore, to be a De Luxe affair.

The school has been receiving many inquiries from former students, especially old "Y" debators, who are planning to be in attendance: All other friends and patrons of the institution are invited.

Students, take it upon yourself to see that everyone interested in the school knows about the debate.

DEBATING

Debating is the most interesting of all our forensic activities and the unusual interest manifested in this line proves its popularity. Never in the history of the Brigham Young University have so many students been working at argumentation. At least a dozen of our best thinkers are intending to try out for the Triangle and Nevada teams. The Princeton debate is attracting interest throughout the school and our boys are working day and night to bring victory to the "Y". The debating society is helping to train inexperienced debaters and aims to give aid to those who have had experience. Taking all phases of the situation into consideration the Brigham Young University is justiffied in its big expectations for making this a banner forensic year.

MISSIONARIE'S CLUB

The "Mishie Club" which was organized last week is the type of club that can and will be of service to the school. In reporting the organization, the secretary stated that the members were anxious to cooperate with the Public Service Bureau in boosting the school.

Such action shows the proper kind of spirit, and the "Mishies" are a bunch who can "boost."

All hail to the Club and its ideals.

"Y" HIGH SCHOOL BASKETTEERS WIN FIRST GAME OF SEASON FROM HEBER AMERICAN LEGION

33 to 28

Last Saturday the high school quint and Coach Roberts journeyed for the first basket ball game of the season with the fast American Legion team. The game was fast from start to finish the Legion team showing all kinds of fight, were out to revenge the defeat handed to them last year by this same team, and they came very near doing it. Superior passing by the "Y" boys proved the deciding factor, however the basket shooting of the Legion team was much better than was ours, and the team had considerable hard luck in finding the hoop. The following men took the trip: Pyne, Partridge, Keeler, Young, Dixon, Nuttall, Jackson and Coach Roberts.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY WEDNESDAY NOON

After a very interesting educational program Wednesday at noon the entire student body and faculty assembled in front of the High School building to witness the raising of the Stars and Stripes and the White & Blue. During the hoisting of the national flag we sang the "Star-Spangled Banner", and later in honor of the White and Blue we sang the College Song. The spirit of the occasion was felt by all and we vowed renewed allegiance to the two banners that signify patriotism to our nation and to our college.

SPECIAL PRACTICE FEATURED IN DEBATING SOCIETY

Following the regular order of business, forty-five minutes was given to four prospective debators. Gladys Loynd and Glenn Hubbard on the affirmative and Vesta Pierce and Kilton Stewart on the negative side of the question: Resolved that Congress should pass a law prahibiting strikes in essential industries, constitutionality conceded. During the course of the debate members of the society took notes on the material given and the manner of presentation. Following the debate Professor Pardoe gave a brief criticism of the work of the participants, calling attention to the weak and strong points of each. This same plan of procedure is to be followed in the future with hope that it will be successful and beneficial in giving the members practice in debating, and also in teaching them to be good, intelligent listeners.

A POISONOUS PHRASE

By President William DeWitt Hyde
Bowdoin College

Inwarfare we have ceased poisoning wells, and, if Dr. Wiley has his way, we shall not much longer poison food. Yet we still allow phrases to pass currrent among us which are more deadly than saccharine and copper sulphate, malaria and typhoid fever. For a whole unconscious philosophy of life may be wrapped up in a phrase; as in the case cited in Dean Briggs' 'Girls and Education', of the man whose solutation was not, "How do you do?" but, "How do you stand it?"

Sometimes these phrases are wholesome and therapeutic. In the rich soil of student conversation, however, weeds grow more profusely and rankly than flowers and vegetables. About a decade ago there sprang up a noxious weed, responsible for much loafing among the well-to-do—"C is a gentleman's grade." President Lowell, soon after his inauguration, dealt that phrase its death blow. A student whom he asked how he was getting on replied, "Pretty well; I'm getting gentleman's grade." "Oh," said President Lowell, "you are getting A or E. A gentleman either does his best, or doesn't pretend to do anything."

A phrase just now thrusting itself into academic use sets the ideal one notch lower than the discredited "gentleman's grade." It is the phrase "Get by."

I have often heard the phrase from both undergraduates and students in professional schools; but I never felt its full force until I heard its passionate denunciation by a business man with whom I was playing golf. We were talking about a certain young man whom he had recently met, and whom he had to ask how he was getting on. "I am hoping to get by," was the reply. "Hoping to get by!" exclamed my friend, who by the way, has a passion for perfection, whether it be in golf or a bond issue; "hoping to get by!" If I have a case where I am right, but it requires exhaustive knowledge and skillful interpretation to make the judge and jury see it, do you suppose I would employ a man who was 'hoping to get by'?"

The phrase holds as much moral poison as a two-word phrase can hold. It carries the implication that the course of study, or the examination, and the time and effort spent in preparation for it, are evils; and that the only good is a vaguely defined state of existance, unrelated to present effort, which the lapse of time will bring us after these evils, with as little effort as possible, have been endured and survived. It is a new form of the weakling's old device of wishing time and the opportunities it brings away.

And young men, if courtesy forbids them to say as much to their fellows, must think, every time they hear the poisonous phrase, that it is the mark of a coward.

MISS DANCY LECTURES TO B. Y. U. GIRLS

The girls of the B. Y. U. were very fortunate last Tuesday in having Miss Dancy, superintendent of the Nurses School at the L. D. S. University talk to them on personal hygiene. The effects of high heels and improper clothing were brought forcibly before the girls of the B. Y. U. Miss Dancy made a plea with the few who were dressed incorrectly to consider the harm that they were doing themselves and to dress according to the laws of nature and hygiene even though it does violate the laws of fashion. Miss Dancy is a very lovable little woman and her appeal to the girls we hope will make a lasting impression.

A LITTLE INSIGHT INTO WHAT OTHER SCHOOLS ARE DOING, AND SAYING

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

Friday will be Tubbing Day for Frosh Who do not Show Humility

Open war on the Freshmen will be started Friday, unless Freshmen caps are brought into use, according to Allan Lynch, head of the vigilance committee. Yesterday Mr. Lynch stated that the Freshmen were becoming too independent and cocky regarding their position in college. "Because we did not begin warfare at once," said Mr. Lynch, "the Freshmen have apparently gotten the idea that we are asleep at the post and have become extremely cocky and have forgotten their hats many times. Henceforth Friday will be set aside for a day of reckoning when the lowly frosh will be taken into tow for a cool bath in the tub when they appear without the green lids."

DEAN URGES WAR ON SPECIES OF LOUNGE LIZARDS

Freshmen, take note of the way of the mighty Senior, and Seniors Take note of the babe in the Cradle

Poor little freshie has come to the University, to forget the mean old books and to do the get acquainted stunt in the halls.

Every square inch of the halls seems to be covered with the feet of the little Miss in the "fussing" class and the big college man by her side. There is also a class of the well known lounge lizards which have been so prevalent in the recent years. The lounges are minus quantity, however, but the lizards are certainly at large thruout the buildings.

Dean Lucy Van Cott has said that this problem of extinguishing the lounge lizards, "baby vampires" and "fussers" in general from the University has passed from the hands of the faculty and should be made a strong point in the duties of the student body.

GIANT PRINTING PRESS INSTALLED

The giant printing press has been installed with which the publication is being distributed from today for the first time. Henceforth, this monster masterpiece in printing presses will churn out the papers of the University's official organ, It is thought that this giant press is the largest press which prints any college paper in the United States.

The new press, which has recently been installed, in the building made for this purpose, will reel off the Chronicles in less than three minutes, its total capacity being 72,000 papers per hour. With the aid of the new press, the Chronicle will be able to publish a complete extra within thirty minutes from the time the news to be extraed breaks until its final distribution.

The size of the monster press, may be gathered from a statement that it took two large freight cars to transport it from Chicago to Salt Lake. It weighs 120,000 pounds, and occupies the greater portion of the 26 x 57 foot building erected adjacent to the chronicles stereotyping building. It measures 30 1-2 feet long, 19 feet wide, and 15 feet 2 inches in height. It took a crew of six mechanics three weeks to erect the giant press.

VICKSBURG MISSISSIPPI

Burned in Effigy

When the University of Mississippi placed a ban on dancing, the students showed their disapproval by burning the governor of the state in effigy. The governor of the state was President of the university's board of trustees.

COLLEGE MEN HOLD BIG POW-WOW

Pres. Peterson of Commercial Club Promises Support

The first big smokeless smoker was staged by the men of the B. Y. U. last Friday in the men's gym. Boxing matches, wrestling matches, a rousing speech by Preston G. Peterson and a feature basket ball game between the two main college teams were the program.

The pow-wow opened with the singing of "Liza Jane, "Old Black Joe" and other old songs by the whole assembly and after a few spirited yells President Preston G. Peterson was announced as the speaker of the day. Peterson talked on the record made by the B. Y. U. in spite of the small attendance. He said he thot it was a perfectly safe statement to say that the B. Y. U. had produced more state champions than all the other schools combined. He gave a big argument for the enlarging of our athletic resources and on behalf of the Commercial and Rotary Clubs offered all the assistance they had and told the school they could take the Timpanogos Ball Park for a new athletic field. He stated that there was room for the best field in the state including a quarter mile cinder track, tennis courts, base ball diamond, gridiron, and he pointed out that the park was convenient for the people and we would benefit largely thru increased attendance at the "Y" activities. He also offered the field for use this winter as a skating rink. He pointed out that these improvements would be a big draw-card and we would draw more high school athletes to the school. In this connection he made the following statements: (1) we want clean athletes when they come, (2) every man in school should be out competing for some form of athletics, (3) play the game clean.

The first boxing match was between two pin weights, Smart and Carlyle both weighing 57 pounds and after three rounds the match was called a draw. Lloyd and McIntosh boxed three rounds with McIntosh winning by a shade. The wrestling match between Bench and Randall resulted in a fall for Bench in 2 minutes and 35 seconds. The final boxing match was between Stewart and Larson and after three fast rounds was called a draw.

The final on the program was the basket ball game between the two main college teams. The game was fast through out and real team work was displayed by the winners. The basket shooting by the whites was the feature.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR MEN ENTERTAIN

Saturday evening the Junior and Senior men entertained the two classes in the art gallery. The classes played "Train Wreck" and "This is my Nose" and other highly intellectual games including a spelling match. Before the end of the game it was discovered that Professor Cummings had developed a remarkable aptitude for spelling words backwards. Then they had a "snatch grab" menu Burnell Edwards and Ernest Wilkinson each put a half a dozen apples in their pockets to keep to eat in theology, and Everett Mecham seemed very partial to bananas. Towards eleven o'clock George Ballif began to exhibit extreme nervousness which semed to persuade him that it was his duty to go home so he went to get Algie's coat. Some of the boys came down the stairs from the domestic science room with their hands in their pockets, George and Algie were led out into the middle of the floor and then it rained rice, and later congratulations followed. After that we danced a while, then filled our pockets with nuts and went home.

"A LITTLE NONSENSE NOW AND THEN IS RELISHED BY BEST OF MEN"

"Your wife sir," said the paper hanger,

"Well, very pretty isn't it?"

Imagine the scene: A big comfortable chair, a beautiful girl snuggled down in it, her head leaned back so that she is looking up into the face of the man who is bending so attentively over her.

Now he reaches his arm around her. Her head is pressed against his heart. Speech at this time would be impossible.

Listen. We hear her struggled whisper: "Oh, dear, you hurt." In a low earnest voice he says: "Well I simply cannot help hurting you a little bit. You don't mind that do you?"

Again we hear only silence. They seem perfectly contented.

It is not long, however, that they remain in this position. He does not seem content with what he can see of her face.

Her eyes are violet gray. He bends further over so that he can see into—well—see into her mouth.

Because, of course, it is the dentist repairing her teeth.

In the confusion of the advance the Chaplain was separated from his outfit. Night found him in No Man's Land without his bearings and aimlessly seeking his own lines. He stumbled into a broken trench and flopped when voices reached him. Friends or enemies? Had he blundered into the Hun lines?

Uttering a prayer, he made ready to do or die, when a sharp voice cut the deathlike silence:

"Who in hell led that last ace "

Thank God, I'm among Christians," the padre murmured as he reached for his plug of Granger Twist.

LORIN JONES WRITES

ings, especially a new man from the outside. But, I have already made a good many friends and hope to make a great many more.

New Mexico has had five Utah boys in her employ as county agents, all Mormons. Two are still working as county agents. I think that all of them have made good on the job and I am sure some of them have, because the State Leader of County Agents came to me and asked if I could give the mames of some more Mormon boys who are qualified to take hold of this work and who have had Spanish. He said that the Utah boys had given such good satisfaction that the college would like to get a few more of them. To be able to speak the Spanish language is one of the essentials in getting a job here with the College.

The more I work among Spanish speaking people the greater are the opportunities I see for the young man who can speak the language and so my advice to the young man in school who is looking for opportunities is to study Spanish. Mexico is becoming settled and when she finally becomes stabalized in her governmental affairs she will offer the greatest opportunities to the young man and the investor of any country that I know of.

There is only one condition here that I do not like and which I am sure will limit the time that we shall stay here, and that is the fact that there is no church organization. It really surprises me to see how much I miss the church and its organizations as soon as I am away from them.

Would you kindly instruct the editor of the White and Blue to put me on the mailing list and to send the bill to me here.

Thanking you for the kind interest you show in me and also for the letter which you sent, and assuring you that I shall always remain loyal to the school that has made me what I am, I beg to reamin.

Your Brother,
Lorin F. Jones

SOPHS GIVE HARD TIMES PARTY

Oh, how we will pray for hard, hard times if they will bring such wonderful carefree times as the Sophmore-Freshie party. What a relief from pressed up clothes and slicked down hair, for at this good time gingham, rags, overalls and Dad's old clothes reigned supreme.

"That's never our old friend Parkinson!" Some exclamed. For what, Oh what had Mrs. Pardoe's art and a few brilliant hair accessories done to him. This was just typical of the transformations of our friends. Even freckles were all the style, and some of the girls could not be recognized.

And then there was cider, and everybody wondered and wondered where they got it—some asked privately, but everybody agreed it was absolutly the best they had ever drank. Everyone had a bag full of candy and nuts. Think of it, the regular old time molasses candy, that sticks and sticks but is awfully satisfying when one gets on to it. You can imagine how surprised everyone was when Von Billings and others, apparently toothless could eat just as much molasses candy as anybody else. We suspect them of using tar, burnt coles or something.

Everyone could have danced forever. Exams were forgotten and we were back in the good old days when gingham meets gingham.
